

Ipixuna

To whom it may concern,

As part of the five year service review for S/Y Ipixuna (Swan '82) we had to consider a revitalisation or repaint of the gel coat.

Having decided that repainting the hull was an unnecessary expense at this stage we decided to find out if we could revitalise the gel coat, and approached four leading paint restoration and protection companies in the Sydney marine market to provide us with sample patches (on the UV damaged Gel Coat on the hull) of their work and their product's capability.

Our decision to contract Permagard Marine at the end of the testing phase was based on three criteria:

- The sample patches remained outstanding and did not degenerate during the test phase.
- The test area demonstrated Permagard's ability to totally restore and rejuvenate gel coat.
- They are a multi-national company and can service or new protective coating globally.

During the contracted works I found the Permagard Marine staff to be professional, highly skilled and very helpful, above and beyond the remit of the work specified. And more importantly delighted with the results that Permagard Marine achieved.

Suffice to say as the Captain of S/Y Ipixuna I have no hesitation in recommending their product range and their work and look forward to working with them in the future.

Yours sincerely,
